

February 2, 2010

EDITORS: The following information is for immediate release. If you have any questions, please contact Debbie Keener, program coordinator of the Chester County Economic Development Council, at 610 458-5700.

ITAG presents $2,000 scholarship to Alexander Senko of Cornell University

Kennett Square resident wrote on quantum computing and nanotechnology

EXTON _ Cornell University freshman student Alexander Senko has won a $2,000 Innovative Technology Action Group “Go For It” scholarship.

Applicants submitted essays discussing ways in which a particular advancement in technology may impact the future within the student’s intended career pathway. Senko’s submission focused on quantum computing and nanotechnology.

Senko lives in Kennett Square. His intended major is biochemistry.

ITAG is an initiative of the Chester County Workforce Investment Board and the Chester County Economic Development Council with grant funds received from the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry.

ITAG’s mission is to promote Information Technology, Communications, and Technological Processes, to all companies and individuals in Southeastern Pennsylvania as a means to become more effective in an increasingly sophisticated global marketplace. This is accomplished by working closely with and servicing participating ITAG companies, economic development agencies, and education/training partners to develop the tech workforce and help businesses succeed by using technology effectively. For more information, see www.itagpa.org.

The Chester County Economic Development Council is a private, non-profit economic development organization that has been nurturing economic growth in Chester County and the surrounding region for 50 years. The Council’s portfolio of business growth services includes: low-interest financing, small business lending, workforce training, retention and expansion, customized international business assistance, land and building site selection, brownfields consultation and remediation, urban redevelopment, and agricultural economic development. The Council also offers state-of-the art conference and training facilities at its facility in Eagleview. For more information, see www.cceconomicdevelopment.com.